What's new in version 4.4.0:

Version 4.4.0 changelog: PDF support for nav menu controls This is a relatively simple option, but it can have a huge impact on the appearance of the page. You can install a PDF viewer in the menu system, and have it display in the menu bar. Donate Link Target Option Want to show a link to an external page while you're editing a page? After you click on Edit, the Settings dialog box appears. Click on the right arrow in the button bar and select the Target link option. The link will appear directly below the "Page Name" text box. New javascript and css support This is a rare option, but it's worth checking out. Under WebEditor Settings, you can enable support for JavaScript and/or CSS. This makes it possible to create a wide range of dynamic webpages. Enhanced page number placement This option lets you use page numbers on your pages. It is located under the WebEditor Settings dialog box. Properties options You can now edit the properties of the page objects, including the page title, page background, tab background, and tab border, from the Properties tab. New option for network address display in menu You can now use NetBIOS in the Menu tab.

Instead of having the Address come up as " you can choose the netbios name if available. For example, if you chose to use "EBSQTP\windows" it would display that under the Address textbox. Small change for images in HTML When you drag and drop an image onto the HTML document, the image alignment will now be centered. New textbox with default font There is a new textbox on the page that can be used for general text. It is inserted and styled as a page object. The font used for this textbox is Arial.

When you scroll the page in the menu, the URL will also be displayed. Code import option for Namo WebEditor is a feature-rich software solution to creating webpages in a few simple steps. It is oriented toward users with little or no experience in web designing code. The interface of the program is professional-looking and somewhat intuitive. You can easily browse for files on your computer by using the Explorer-based layout and create HTML, SHTML, MHTML, XHTML, TXT, ASP, PHP, JSP and XML-based pages. It is possible to insert images, photo albums, smart clipart, Flash buttons, media, theme objects, tables, layout boxers, layer, scripts, hyperlinks, bookmarks, spreadsheets, charts, symbols, and so on. However, if you have some experience in programming, you can edit the document's code and preview results, aside from generating a sitemap or making the app automatically update the site structure and dynamic navigation bars. Namo WebEditor comes packed with a bunch of useful tools when it comes to website developing. For instance, you can manage multiple projects via Site Manager, import various objects rapidly with the help of Resource Manager, create a teaching plan, as well as locate files or broken links with a search function, just to name a few. The projects can be immediately published on the Internet or uploaded via FTP. The comprehensive software program has a good response time, runs on a moderate amount of CPU and system memory, and includes a thorough help file. No error dialogs have been shown in our tests and Namo WebEditor did not hang or crash; we haven't come across any issues. All in all, Namo WebEditor should satisfy users of all skill levels who are looking to quickly build websites.
